Meeting location change. We will be meeting at Zitos Pizza 2036 Tustin St, Orange. Zitos is offering a 10% food discount during the meeting.

I would like to report on what GPS device we are using. If you would, reply to me with what GPS device you are using and why. I will report the results next month.

At the December 6th meeting Mike took some time to recognize the volunteers that make this club work.

Last year we had 20 Dirt Devil runs and 4 adopt a trail runs and many other non-club runs. I would call that a successful year. To repeat what Mike said at the December meeting the run leaders deserve a big thanks. It could not happen without their effort.

I encourage 4 Wheelers to have a 2 Meter Ham Radio in their 4X4 for convenience and safety. Anyone can buy a Ham Radio and anyone can monitor Ham frequencies. In an emergency, anyone can transmit on Ham Frequencies even without a license. Taking a class is quick and easy (I do recommend studying before the class). Test are given immediately following the class about 90%.

If you want to buy a Ham radio but don't want to spend a lot of money, the Baofeng UV-5R is available for about $30 on Amazon or Ebay. This small, hand held radio works great for 4 Wheeling.

Vinnie Barbario a CORVA board member visited our club last month and got us current on what CORVA is doing.

See you on the trail.

Endangered listing deemed unwarranted for flat-tailed horned lizard

Thursday, 08 December 2016

Written by John Stewart

At the California Fish and Game Commission meeting in San Diego an agenda item for consideration was the Petition to consider listing the flat-tailed horned lizard as a California Endangered Species. The potential listing has been in review for almost two years and a staff report was issued that recommended that list of the FTHL is not warranted.

Today the Commission received a status review and public comments concerning the proposed Petition to list and voted to accept staff recommendation that listing of the FTHL is not warranted. Next step is to produce a “finding of fact” document that will be presented at the next Commission for formal adoption of the finding.

The Arizona Game and Fish, representing Flat-tailed Horned Lizard Interagency Coordinating Committee, presented comprehensive data indicating a stable population of lizards within the habitat area. The El Centro BLM submitted documentation supporting federal actions to protect critical habitat that eliminates the defined habitat from consideration of potential development.

While this round is a win for OHV recreation, the adopted findings call for a status review in 3-5 years.

Run Reports

Afton Canyon Nov 4-6, 2016

Afton Canyon is an easy trail with a moderate river crossing (usually there are two crossings, but this year the eastern one under the bridge was completely dry).

Participants:

- Chris Slaughter passenger with Rick (Trail lead, member)
- Rick Walter '06 TJ (member)
- Pete Johnson '06 TJ (member)
- John Johnson '15 JK (member)
- Joe Cowie '09 JK (member)
- Steve Hendry '01 TJ (member)
- Jimmy Gallagher '98 TJ (guest)
- Josh White passenger with Jimmy (guest)

My vehicle was down so I caught a ride with Rick and lead the trail from the passenger seat. Rick, Pete and I met in Riverside on Friday AM and caravanned to the Afton Group Campsite. Most everyone else arrived Friday evening, with a couple others arriving Saturday morning. I was happy to find that there are pit toilets at the Group Campsite. Made things easier.

When we got to the campsite, it was already occupied with folks from the Desert Burros club, but there was plenty room to share (they got the Ramada, though). Met Josh Noesser of TrailsOffroad.com. He has a nice website that features several off-road trail descriptions. Pete turned out to be a celebrity. When I stated I was from Dirt Devils, one guy asks, "I know about you guys. Is Pete with you today?" He knew Pete from Panamint Valley Days apparently.

We had some time to kill Friday evening, so we took a trip up Afton River to the Triangles Intaglios. GPS led us to the foot of the bluff and it might have been a 200' climb up the cliff, but we scouted out an alternate route up Manix Wash to the top. Much easier. The Triangles are an ancient Indian artifact made by removing dark-colored gravel to reveal the light bedrock below. There are several shapes of different sizes, but all are triangular.

On Saturday, I gave a tutorial on crossing the Mohave River and then headed into the canyon. The crossing was about 32" deep and the group made it through safely. The second crossing under the bridge was completely dry. Stops included the Spooky cave slot canyon, T-bone Albright's gravesite and a few stops on the south rim to overlook the canyon. On the way out, we passed a large group of vehicles we took to be rockhounds. They gave us a suspicious eye so we continued on. The day was still inviting, so we headed out to the Blowsand dunes for some sand play and then headed back via the Razor OHV portion of the Mojave Trail. On the way back, we stopped to look at the Manix Fault line. We started out again and a call came over the radio that Steve had hung up on a rock. By the time we got there, Steve had extricated himself. No cow bell. Darn!

Saturday night was especially interesting. We were sitting at the campfire when Josh looks over to me and says, "There's a snake by your foot." Luckily, I didn't panic and slowly looked down to the ground. Sure enough, there was a snake! I carefully moved out of reach and it slithered away in a very characteristic manner. It was a 4 foot long Sidewinder! Well, maybe 4 INCHES long, but STILL! Everyone had the 'willies' and kept perusing the ground for the rest of that night.

On Sunday, Steve headed back home. Since we were exiting out of Ludlow, we weren't returning to camp. He had brought his RV and didn't want to take it through the crossing. So, off we went and headed back out the canyon, and this time visited the 'Chinese Wall', used to load the railcars with material from the Baxter Mine. We continued east on the south side of the railroad tracks. We stopped at the Dolores Holland gravesite and then went on to the site of the town of Crucero where we headed south to Mesquite Springs and the Indian Petroglyphs. After lunch, we took a short trip to visit the enigmatic Megaphone. A bunch of guys were target shooting at the trailhead, so we didn't stay long. Off we went to do a speed run across Broadwell Lake towards Ludlow, where we aired up and had an ice cream treat at the Dairy Queen, well, I did at least.

The trip was an easy sightseeing trip marked by a few exciting moments. Weather was excellent and so were the people.

It was a great day, just enough difficult and safe enough to make it through. We went up Odessa and down Duran. Stopped for lunch at Bismarck mine. We didn't have enough time to get over to Wall Street overlook, we will do it another time. We all made it through the water fall. At the bottom of Duran is "The Duran Gate Keeper". The rocks are huge and appear to be impassable. There are enough scratch marks in the rocks that indicate that someone has climbed over those rocks.

Josh said he would do it next time.

I hate to reprint Dave's pictures, but he did such a fine job on his most recent remodel, I had too.

Cowbells

The cow bell rules are: Cow bells are awarded from air down to air up. If you get stuck and are unable to move under your own power and need the help of a winch or you get strapped from one of your fellow jeeps then you have earned the privilege of hanging the cow bell from your front bumper. You must leave the cow bell on the front of your rig until another Dirt Devil gets stuck. Then you proudly hand it over. While on the trail, not on the highway to the trail.

Pinyon Mountain, The Squeeze & Heart Attack Hill

January 28th – 29th

Run leader: Robert Rien rrien07@gmail.com

The squeeze

Description of Run:

video: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=P5R2Vohevc>

My son Sean and I preran the trail mid December 2016.

If Your Rig does not have Anti Rock or Quick disconnects you will need to bring two 18mm open end (ratchet closed ends are faster) and two zip ties to disconnect your sway bar and tie up your tie rods.

You will only need to air down to 18 PSI, any more then this and you will have too much of a tire swell on your side walls, and you will have a tougher fit through the squeeze.

This Run is and will always be contingent on the weather. With that said depending on the weather we will meet at the trail head at 0900.

The Squeeze is the first obstacle we will go through, one of the nice things about this trail is that it is a one way trail, so if it is backed up we will not be waiting on someone coming the wrong way.

Be prepared for some possible rubbing on the squeeze, and if you are running spacers, you might think about pulling them for this run.

Once through the Squeeze we will travel down to an amazing vista and waterfall that we will NOT go down, but photo time.

Then we will turn around and head up the hill to "Heart-Attack" Hill, once you get through a few tight spots, one water fall and a nasty looking bolder you will just drive on up to a staging point on top of the hill.

We will review the safety procedures for descending this hill so all rigs will make it down safely. On every video that I have seen of roll-overs from this hill, it has all been spotter and driver error, I have done this hill several times and no one in our group has ever rolled or damaged their Rigs. Once down the hill we will head out to Sand Canyon. We were not able to prerun the Sand Canyon due to resent rains but as you can see from the video it is amazing. From there we will head back out to Fish Creek Wash and time permitting hit El Diablo Drop off and then head back to Camp (Stage coach RV park).

This is a Jeep Badge of Honor run and is considered one of the toughest runs in So Cal area, but you can do it in a stock Jeep.

The vista's and sand stone Canyons are just amazing as well.

Plan on most of the day to get through this run, with just two Rigs, one winching, it took us 5 hours to run this trail.

On Sunday Morning we will head at 0900 for 5 and 7 Palms, these are Oasis watering holes for the desert animals in the area, then head up the wash to Fish Creek once more, and visit a mud cave. or two, there are Wind caves that I have not seen yet that are supposed to be amazing we will need to hike in to see them, no Jeeps allowed on that trail. From there we will bypass Fish Creek Dry Camp Site heading back towards the road. We will air back up near the road and head out from there to S2, making a Right on S2 and left on 79. Nice restaurant over looking lake Henshaw.

Difficulty Rating: Medium

Departure Angles are tight, so trucks will have more rubbing than a Jeep, but still completely passable so long as they fit through the squeeze gate keeper. Otherwise go around and meet up at the bottom of Heart-Attack Hill.

This is a very Challenging run, to test your skills as a driver, we will discuss the proper ascent of extremely steep hill, and if would make you feel more comfortable we can even winch you down the toughest part of heart-attack hill.

Tire size: 32" Min. Aired down to 18 PSI.

Body Damage is possible as in all Runs, but more so in the Squeeze and Heart-attach hill.
